

Allies Close in on Syrian Capital, Fall Is Expected; Ruhr Area Bombed Again

Surrender Might Prove Pivotal Point in East African, Middle East Campaigns

Planes Downed
British Hint at Some New Anti-Aircraft Device

(By The Associated Press)

British imperial and Free French forces closed in on 4,000-year-old Damascus today, at the end of the first week of their campaign to take Syria and Lebanon out of Vichy's control and nullify them as assets in Berlin's war plans.

Authoritative sources in London said that the Vichy defenders of the Syrian capital had abandoned the town of Kisseou, 10 miles away, falling back close to the walls of the unfortified city.

The fall of Damascus—a potential turning point in the Allied offensive of liberation and protection for the French-mandated lands if not a pivotal development for the whole turn of events in Africa and the Middle East—was expected within a few hours, if it had not already been formally surrendered.

The titanic struggle by sea and air between Germany and Britain was marked today by reports that:

British warships had sunk the seventh raiding companion of the destroyed German battleship Bismarck. This boosted the toll of the Bismarck's auxiliaries to six supply ships and one armed trawler.

A strong R. A. F. force once again straddled the berths of the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau at Brest, France, but this time, it was said, their targets included a 10,000-ton German cruiser, possibly the Prinz Eugen, consort of the Bismarck just before British torpedoes pounded her to pieces 400 miles off Brest May 27.

Germany's "Pittsburgh region," the Ruhr valley, was bombed for the third consecutive night with blasting emphasis on the Schweinfurt zone, German channel shipping and an airdrome in Brittany also got a pounding which cost the British two planes.

Seven German bombers were destroyed in raids on Britain during the night—a notable success for the British, considering the small scale of the attacks.

Secret Device Hinted

The score hinted anew at some secret device or technique and gave point to an utterance of Labor Minister Ernest Bevin last night that "the day is not far distant when you will be equally safe at night in your beds as you are in the daytime."

Another plane—a fighter—was shot down this morning over the English Channel.

German night raiders struck at objectives in England's eastern and southern coastal regions, with accent on airdromes. The Nazis claimed three British fighter planes shot down in combat over the North Sea and the English Channel.

On the diplomatic front, German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop and his Italian counterpart, Count Ciano, had a mysterious rendezvous in Venice, Berlin guardedly hinted that a new axis membership might be pending.

The new member may be Croatia, a most likely possibility, but to questions as to Von Ribbentrop's recent assertion that other countries probably would join the axis and whether that could be taken to mean Turkey or Soviet Russia, authorized German sources replied enigmatically.

The foreign minister's prediction may come true more quickly than you imagine.

The British radio broadcast reports last night from Cairo that negotiations already were under way for surrender of the ancient Syrian capital, but there was no confirmation in London, and the Palestine broadcasting system said the French inside the city had lost a heavy artillery bombardment on the British and Free French around Damascus.

Reports Persist
Reports of Nazi-Soviet tension persisted, meanwhile, and sources in neutral Switzerland suggested the situation grew out of German demands for economic rights in Soviet Russia's great Ukrainian breadbasket.

The Journal De Geneve said Russian Premier Joseph Stalin was trying to dodge Adolf Hitler's demands—but stood ready to give in rather than fight.

The Soviet government acknowledged German troop movements toward Russia's western frontier, but said it "should be assumed" the troop movements had nothing to do with Soviet-German relations and denied that Germany had presented any new demands.

French military headquarters at Beirut, Lebanon, had nothing to say about the situation at Damascus, but reported that British and Free French troops who succeeded

Where New Pipelines Are Planned

Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold Ickes has been studying a plan to construct 4,450 miles of pipelines to avert a petroleum transportation shortage. One line would run from Port Arthur and Texas City to New Jersey, carrying 250,000 barrels of gasoline a day. Another from Illinois to New Jersey would carry a similar amount of crude oil. A third line from Portland, Me., to Montreal, would eliminate a 2,000-mile water haul. Work is now under way on a gasoline line from Baton Rouge to Greensboro. This line may be extended to Norfolk. Another line (broken) from Port St. Joe to Chattanooga, is completed except for crossing several railroad rights of way.

Dr. Goebbels Is Either in Trouble Or Turning Trick

In Final Eventuality It Might Be That Hitler Suppressed Article to Quiet People

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
(Freeman Special News Service)

Little Dr. Goebbels either is turning a machiavellian trick of propaganda or else he is in a jam again.

Yesterday Dr. Goebbels put a piece in Adolf Hitler's own newspaper in which he hinted in a heavy-handed way that the invasion of Crete would be followed in two months by the invasion of England.

The first few copies were barely off the presses when the plates were torn up, all possible copies destroyed and the Goebbels article yanked out and replaced with something innocuous.

It may be that Dr. Goebbels did the whole thing with tongue in cheek to give the British a few shivers—certainly there seems to have been no secret made of the ban; the article itself, or part of it, has been cabled abroad, and on the surface it does not appear to contain anything militarily information which might be of aid to the British.

Goebbels Capable of Stunt
Goebbels is perfectly capable of pulling off such a stunt to attract British—and American—attention to his story.

There is, however, an alternative, and it is that Hitler quashed the little doctor's invasion prediction because he did not believe it would be good for German morale.

These are the days when the black messenger in Nazi uniform is knocking at the doors of German homes, proud and humble, and telling mothers and fathers that Rudi, or Hans, or Willi, will not come home from Crete.

The mothers and fathers of the German soldiers who still live can see from their own casualty figures of 5,893 lost in Crete that it cost more in dead, wounded and

Jury in Arson Case Disagrees, Is Discharged; Negress Goes Back to Jail

After deliberating for three hours the jury which heard the evidence in the Helen Bennett arson case was unable to agree and after reporting such action to County Judge J. Edward Conway was discharged. Miss Bennett, Ellenville negress, was charged with having set fire to clothing in a closet in her home at 202 Canal street, Ellenville, on May 3, after a quarrel with John Lansky, white man with whom she lived.

The charge was arson, first degree, since the fire was started at night and in a house occupied by other people. The fire was discovered about 5 o'clock in the

Melik Indictment Is Deemed Valid By Justice Murray

Supreme Court Judge Says Inspection of Grand Jury Minutes Is Basis of Ruling

Supreme Court Justice William H. Murray has denied the application for dismissal of the indictment against Zaven Melik which charges him with threatening a public official, namely Samuel Stern of the Kingston draft board.

Melik, who resides on South Clinton avenue, was indicted on a charge of having made threats against members of the draft board at the time his brother was called for examination. As a result the grand jury returned an indictment numbering four counts. A plea of innocence was entered on arraignment and an application was made to inspect the grand jury minutes. This motion was granted and the inspection had.

At a special term before Justice William H. Murray here on June 6, Daniel Hoffman, counsel for Melik, moved for a dismissal of the indictment. District Attorney Haver opposed the motion.

Justice Murray, in a brief memorandum denies the application and says that from a careful examination of the grand jury minutes which were submitted to the court, he is of the opinion that there was sufficient legal evidence submitted to the grand jury to justify the finding of the indictment and therefore the application for dismissal is denied and the indictment is upheld.

Chief Makes Comment

Watonga, Okla., June 14 (AP)—Cheyenne Indians started picketing the postoffice today in protest against a new mural depicting their forebears. Attired in full tribal regalia, they bore placards saying: "Postoffice mural unfair to Cheyenne Indians." The action came at the instance of Red Bird, 71-year-old chief of the Cheyenne tribe who, after studying the mural proclaimed: "It stinks!"

morning after it had burned through the floor and showered fire upon the bed of an aged couple living downstairs.

Miss Bennett was remanded to the custody of the sheriff and the case will probably be re-tried at another term of county court. The present term is the last until fall.

Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for the defendant and District Attorney Haver and Assistant District Attorney Stang appeared for the prosecution. Miss Bennett denied the charge and claimed she had not been at the house all night but had been at a drinking establishment in the village. She blamed Lansky for the fire.

Speakers Tell of City Defenses

Panel Forum Is Held at City Hall; Horton, Mayor, Police Chief Are Heard

Survey Is Made

Phinney Tells of City Survey of Vulnerable Spots

That a considerable amount of thought and effort in preparation for meeting any emergencies that might arise should Nazi blitzkrieg tactics be extended to include the United States, and the city of Kingston in particular, was disclosed at a largely attended gathering at the city hall Friday night. The common council chamber was perhaps two-thirds filled when Mrs. John G. M. Hilton, president of the Kingston branch of the Junior League, which sponsored the forum, called the meeting to order at 8:15 o'clock and briefly outlined steps taken for local and national civilian defense work, and the purpose of the present meeting.

It was stated that the object was to acquaint the members of various organizations and others attending with the steps taken by members of the local Council for National Defense since its formation by Mayor Heiselman some months ago and what it is hoped to accomplish, in order that the public generally might become informed as to the situation and be prepared to cooperate wholeheartedly in event an emergency should arise. To that end members of the council had been requested to address the gathering and outline the work that already had been done.

Thomas A. Horton, chairman of the local council, explained that its object was to plan ways and means of caring for civilian needs in case of possible emergency, see that necessary supplies were obtained and that morale was sustained. To that end, he stated, studies and surveys had been under way since last October and actual training of volunteer helpers had been inaugurated under training of professional heads of city departments, who were chairmen of the various council subcommittees.

Mayor Heiselman, who is coordinator for the council, spoke of the progress that had been made to meet whatever emergency might arise. He said that following the naming of Mayor LaGuardia of New York as national head for civilian defense, appointment of state directors was under way and the whole question was being carefully considered in the light of the lessons that had been learned by England as that country had been called upon to meet the devastation caused by German explosive and incendiary bombs during the past year.

The mayor held that even should this country escape the rain of bombs the present defense activities were proving of great value. Lessons of health were being taught, he said, and in that connection referred to the fact that army tests were showing a 10 per cent prevalence of syphilis. "That's something," he said. The people are being taught the value of co-operation, are being made to realize that "we are all fellow citizens, to value the rights and privileges we have in America." He thanked the people for attending the meeting in such large numbers and urged all to be ready to serve if called upon.

Chairmen of the various subcommittees then addressed the meeting and told something of the work that had been done.

Tells of Survey

The first speaker was Chief of Police Charles Phinney, who heads the committee for protection of war industries and against subversive efforts. The chief said that a survey had been made of the vulnerable spots in the city, such as utility locations, gas and oil tanks, transportation lines, and the like. Cooperation has been asked in safeguarding these properties and some private industries already had provided their own guards. The American Legion had taken an active interest in the plans and a large volunteer force of Legionnaires was prepared to serve in an emergency, as an auxiliary police force. The chief said that he planned shortly to present to the Board of Police Commissioners a plan to further augment the police force. Much of the work being done necessarily was secret, it was stated, and the chief said that almost daily he was meeting with F.B.I. men. Aliens and draft dodgers were being picked up and that very day an alleged draft dodger had been arrested, arraigned before U. S. Commissioner de la Vergne and would be taken to New York city Monday.

Allan L. Hanstein, chairman of the committee for obtaining war work and available help, said that a considerable amount of defense work, both prime and sub-contract, had come to Kingston and a survey showed that at least a dozen industries here were participating in such work. He said that there

Playground Aides Chosen for Season

Recreation Bureau Picks 18 Full-Time Leaders for City's Parks

An intensive 10-week period of supervised recreation will be conducted on nine local areas beginning June 23, it was disclosed this morning by Sidney G. Lutzin, superintendent of recreation, with the announcement of the appointment of play leaders who will serve on the various local play areas.

A staff of 18 full-time play leaders and five W. P. A. recreation assistants will conduct a full program of recreational activities for both children and adults on playgrounds, which will include all types of athletic, craft and other activities of a recreational nature.

Included in the list of appointments for this season are five men and only two women who are being employed by the Department of Recreation for the first time. All others have served in various capacities as play leaders at other times.

Appointments
The list of appointments follows:

Hasbrouck Park—Evelyn A. Olivet, 179 Henry street, and Andrew Murphy, 36 Shufeldt street. Miss Olivet is a graduate of Albany State Teachers' College and will be serving her fourth year in the local system. She has previously been a play leader at Barnhart Park for two years and at Hasbrouck Park last year.

Andrew Murphy is attending Notre Dame University and was well known as an athlete while at the Kingston High School.

Cornell Park—Irene Suskind, 107 Hone street, and Albert Tyler, 67 O'Neil street.

Miss Suskind is a student at New Paltz Normal School and has previously served as director of girls' activities at the Rondout Hobby House and as play leader at Cornell Park. Tyler is a graduate of New Paltz Normal School and was play leader at High School Playground in 1939 and at Cornell Park in 1940.

Woman Escapes As Car Upsets

Miss Millie Beatty Is Hurt Slightly; Says Car Spring Broke

Miss Millie Beatty of Stone Ridge had a narrow escape from serious injury or death this morning when her automobile got out of control and crashed into the parked car of Mrs. Margaret M. Miller of 399 Albany avenue, in front of the Kingston Dress Manufacturing Company factory at 107 Greenkill avenue.

The force of the impact was such that the Beatty car was turned completely over, but Miss Beatty escaped with a cut hand and a bruised knee. Her car was damaged badly.

In reporting the crash to Officers Soper and Messing, who responded to a call for assistance, Miss Beatty said that she was driving over Greenkill avenue toward Broadway when the front spring in her car broke, throwing the machine out of control and it swerved in toward the curb striking the parked cars of Mrs. Miller head-on.

The Miller car was driven a distance of 25 to 30 feet up over the sidewalk, and the front end of the car was wrecked badly. A wrecking car was sent to the scene and towed the Beatty car to a garage.

Hull's Accusation Is Basis for Possible Action; Charges Aid to Nazis

Washington, June 14 (AP)—A fresh and stinging United States accusation that France had been induced "to do Germany's fighting" in Syria raised the possibility today that the government soon might back up with action its warnings to Vichy against close collaboration with Berlin.

The first and most immediate likelihood, in the opinion of some authorities, was that the Vichy government might be refused further funds from the approximately $1,500,000,000 in French assets frozen in this country.

Another possible course of action over which there has been much speculation is that the United States eventually might break off diplomatic relations with the Vichy regime, clearing the way for recognition of the "Free French" committee of General Charles De Gaulle, leader of the French forces fighting with Britain.

The whole question of American-French relations was given grave new emphasis last night by Secretary Hull, who said in a statement that "Germany seems to have prevailed on the Vichy government to do Germany's fighting in the Syria area of the general German advance."

Further the secretary of state charged that "the original scheme of the Darlan-Laval group to deliver France politically, economically, socially and militarily to Hitler, is now being carried out."

Administration Foes Join Those Who Denounce Action; Strong Note Expected Will Give Report

Williams Is to Arrive Monday to Give Full Report

Washington, June 14 (AP)—Wide-spread congressional support appeared to be developing today for whatever protests and demands the state department may dispatch to Germany as a result of the sinking of the American merchant ship Robin Moor by a submarine.

Senator Barkley, the Democratic leader, said he thought a protest note ought to be sent immediately and asserted he found it hard to believe the submarine commander sank the vessel "without some advice from higher authority."

A leading critic of administration foreign policy, Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), described the incident as "something I would denounce." He said, however, that he thought "at least we ought to wait an explanation before we jump at conclusions—if there is an explanation."

Veteran Senator Glass (D., Va.) declared that if it was proved beyond question that Germany was responsible for the sinking of the ship, he would support an immediate and forthright explanation of the Robin Moor incident.

In the same communication, it was said, Hull may demand indemnification for American lives and property lost as well as guarantees against future attacks on merchantmen flying the American flag.

Only 11 crewmen and passengers, picked up by the Brazilian vessel Ozorio, have been rescued. Thirty-five others, including three women and a child, are still missing 24 days after the Robin Moor was sent to the bottom of the South Atlantic by a torpedo and shells from the submarine's deck guns.

Whatever action the secretary of state and President Roosevelt decide upon will be taken after the scheduled arrival here Monday of Philip P. Williams, secretary of the American embassy in Rio de Janeiro. He is bringing the official report of William J. Linthicum, American consul at Pernambuco, Brazil, who obtained from the 11 survivors their dramatic accounts of the sinking.

A brief preliminary report by Linthicum earlier this week gave the gist of these stories, identified the undersea craft as a German vessel, and told how those aboard the Robin Moor had been forced to put out in four open lifeboats hundreds of miles from the safety of land or rescue vessels.

On the basis of this information the United States yesterday branded Germany a treaty violator and claimed the evidence was sufficient to justify any measures necessary to enforce the doctrine of freedom of the seas recently reasserted by the President.

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, told reporters that both Germany and the United States were parties to the London naval agreement of 1930 which provided that proper precautions would be taken to insure the safety of passengers and crews on ships sunk by belligerents.

CONGRESSIONAL
Emphatically Welles declared this government did not intend to enter into a controversy over whether the Robin Moor carried contraband cargo. The facts of the case, he said, were established beyond dispute.

A German spokesman's statement that "whenever any ship sails with contraband for England we'll shoot at it" was described in authoritative quarters as merely obvious attempt to muddle the main issue.

In Congressional circles there was increasing speculation that American merchant vessels would be armed against submarine or air attacks as a result of the Robin Moor case, and it was generally recalled that that was one of the first steps taken by President Wilson to combat Germany's unrestricted submarine warfare in 1917.

The navy has been quietly getting ready for several months to meet the heavy requirements for guns and gun-mounts which would follow any decision to put weapons

Ulster-Greene Regional Promotion Is Being Launched on Mutual Basis

During the years that have passed many thousands of dollars and a great amount of time and energy have been expended by individuals and organizations to make known and popularize the incomparable advantages of the region comprised in Ulster and Greene counties to those seeking health and recreation.

These efforts, as a rule, have been localized and thus necessarily have been confined to advertising specific advantages of certain portions of the Ulster-Greene region. As a result the appeal has been more or less limited. On the whole, these activities have brought results and hundreds of thousands of people have been brought to those sections which have been featured by booklets, newspaper announcements, road signs, information bureaus and the like.

There is no question, however, that there remains a host of people who are seeking the wide variety of advantages that this Ulster-Greene region has to offer. All that remains is to make them aware of the fact that here is what they are looking for and to

E. T. Chase to Marry

New York, June 13 (Special)—

On Friday, June 13, Edward Tinsley Chase of Woodstock and Miss Catherine P. Crane of 245 East 61st street, this city, appeared at the Municipal Building and procured a license to marry here today. Their wedding will take place Wednesday in the Little Church Around the Corner in New York.

The Rev. Dr. Randolph Ray, rector, will perform the ceremony. Mr. Chase was born in Kingston, the son of Edward Leigh and Mabel Tinsley Chase. His bride-elect, daughter of Cornelius and Catherine Parker Crane, is a native of San Diego, Calif. Both are students.

The groom attended Indiana University and was a member of various honoraries including Skull & Crescent, Pershing Rifles, Sphinx Club and Alpha Tau Omega. He also attended the University of Missouri and California. A reception was held at the home immediately following the ceremony.

Bullitt's Daughter Honored

Former Resident Married Today

Miss Doris Ester Inman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Bates Tiley of Dennison Road, Essex, Conn., became the bride today of Dr. George John Will, of Dobbs Ferry, Mr. Will's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Will of the Plank road, this city. The wedding took place at St. John's Episcopal Church, Essex, Conn., with the Rev. Burt C. Chandler, rector, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Walter McNeely, rector of the Church of St. Joseph of Arimathea, Elmsford, N. Y.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Allan C. Inman, of Fitchburg, Mass. She wore a white chiffon gown and carried white Killarney roses and stephanotis. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Edward H. Jacob, Jr., of West Chester, Pa., who wore a gown of light blue chiffon and carried pink lissapour. The bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Friebe of New York, Mrs. Evelyn Eastland of Westbrook, Conn. They were attired in dusty rose marquisette gowns and carried blue delphiniums.

The groom's attendant was his cousin, Carl Schantz, of Hawthorne. The ushers were Dr. Ralph T. Dipace, of White Plains, N. H., Kessler of Yonkers, H. J. Shaw and Dr. G. C. Williams of Dobbs Ferry.

The church was decorated with white gladioli, peonies and syringes. Miss Rosalind Field of Essex, Conn., presided at the organ.

A wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Dennison Road. About 100 guests were present. After a wedding trip through northern New England, Dr. and Mrs. Will will reside at Sussex Hall, Dobbs Ferry.

The bride is a graduate of Lesley Normal School, Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Will is a graduate of the Kingston schools, the New York Homeopathic Medical College, and is associated with the Alpha Sigma (medical) fraternity. He is a practicing physician at Sussex Hall, Dobbs Ferry.

Amaranth Mystic Court

A card party will be sponsored by Mystic Court, Order of Amaranth, at the home of Mrs. Georgianna Brown, 196 Hurley avenue, Wednesday evening, June 18, at 8 o'clock. The public is invited. Members of the court are asked to be present.

Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary Meet

The Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. met at the home of the vice president, Mrs. Clarence Dumm, 4 Mountain View avenue, Friday afternoon. The president, Mrs. George H. DuBois, conducted the meeting and the devotions were led by Mrs. Thomas Edmondson.

Plans were made for the cafeteria supper which will be served at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday, June 17, beginning at 5:30 o'clock and to which the public is invited. Mrs. George H. DuBois is chairman of the kitchen committee and Mrs. Edward DeWitt will have charge of the dining room.

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Etta Lasher, program chairman, introduced Miss Dorothy Groves, who sang two solos, "Passing By" and "The Rose." She was accompanied on the piano by Donald Hicks. Miss Ruth Scott played a group of piano numbers, including two Chopin Preludes and "The Night Winds" by Griffes. The meeting closed with a social hour. Mrs. Adam Thiel assisted the hostess.

Local Student Honored

Joseph T. Garland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Garland of 268 South Broadway, this city, was awarded at Williamsport Dickinson Junior College, the president's prize of $10 because of his satisfactory record, genial personality, and participation in all school activities especially as an outstanding athlete contributing to the success of the school's winning teams. Garland during the past year was co-captain of the football team and was a starting regular on a victorious basketball team at the college.

Entertained on Thursday

Mrs. Clarence Mullen entertained, Thursday afternoon, at her home on Harding avenue in honor of Mrs. John Mullen. Those present were: Mrs. William Auchmoody, Mrs. Nettie McKinley, Mrs. Harry Pierce, Mrs. Edward Steinert, Mrs. Howard Eaton, Mrs. Charles Czerwinski and Mrs. John Mullen.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Boss of 99 Cedar street announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Eugene Scharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scharp of 17 Hone street. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Book of Social Graces," etc.)

Treat Stranger Seated at Opposite You at Restaurant Table As You Would a Person Sitting Beside You in Any Public Place.

That many persons find it distasteful to have strangers seated across from them at a small restaurant table, has long been evident in letters asking me to write against this annoying practice. I have never written about it because in a popular priced tea room or restaurant that can not make a profit unless a great number of persons are served, it can not be expected that a customer will be turned away, as long as there are empty seats at any of the tables. Today, however, a reader instead of protesting against having a stranger put at her table takes a philosophical attitude and merely asks "Is one supposed to talk to the stranger who is put at one's table in a restaurant, or to pay no attention and mind one's own business?"

You act just as you do when a stranger sits next to you in a bus, or at a soda counter, or anywhere else in public. Of course, if she has no menu and there is one at your place you would hand it to her. But unless you ask for salt or sugar or something out of your reach, or offer her something out of hers, you "mind your own business."

In fact, you might remember, should you feel annoyed at this forceful situation, that she probably doesn't want to sit at your table any more than you want her to. If you go to a certain restaurant regularly, you might on an occasion when you are not feeling well, ask the head waitress when you go in, not to seat anyone with you for so long as there are other places vacant. But this would be too much of a special privilege to ask for regularly.

The Price of Being Bridesmaid!

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancée's sister is to be one of my bridesmaids. She is not going to be able to arrive here much before the wedding and so I shall have to take care of her dress for her. I have gotten her exact measurements. But must I ask her opinion about the color or style of dresses if the other three girls decide on something? I don't want to be unfair but the others would make a majority preference anyway, and so I feel there is no use confusing the situation.

Answer: The way you suggest is the only way bridesmaids' clothes are ever chosen. They always wear whatever the bride prefers even when it is something they all dislike. That they seldom like every detail of her choice and that they must in addition pay for whatever they wear, is the not unusual payment for the fun and the distinction of being bridesmaid.

Paying the Doctor Bill

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to write a check to a doctor as John

Smith, M. D., or are these initials not to be added?

Answer: There would be no harm in adding them if you want to, but the name alone is correct. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Father's Day—Sunday, June 15th
 Father is aging; his step is less sure
 His eyesight is failing, his memory is poor
 His old tasks fatigue him before well begun
 But there must be food for wife, daughter, and son
 And there must be shelter, clothing and fuel
 Proud shoulders sag 'neath burden so cruel
 But Father plods on 'till the day's work is done
 For he must provide for wife, daughter and son
 Father's a hero in his quiet way,
 So let's honor him now—and every day.

Defense Attorney—But if a man is on his hands and knees in the middle of the road, does that prove he is drunk?
 Arresting Officer—No, sir, it does not.
 Defense Attorney—Then why arrest him?
 Arresting Officer—He was trying to roll up the white line.

Some Father's Day

He's not so stylish—quiet—as you; his ties are never straight; his wrinkled clothes, and floppy hat, he's not a fashion plate. His table manners aren't correct; the wrong fork suits him fine. So far as etiquette is concerned, he's always out of line. If you and he were just alone, he never would be blamed; But, with your friends, these little things cause you to feel ashamed.
 Some Father's Day you'll realize that plain old Dad was great—And far above your stylish friends; But will you think—too late?
 —Lyla Myers

She had done everything wrong. Sherwood had disregarded the signal lights, then stalled in the middle of the street and, before starting, had taken out her powder puff and started applying it to her face. An irate traffic cop rushed up.

Officer—Say, lady, do you know anything at all about the traffic rules?
 Sweet Young Thing—Why, yes, officer. What is it that you want to know?

Pedestrians complain that speeding motorists say: "Hey, why don't you look where I'm going?"

Pap
 There's a reverence in Father and I don't object to Dad.
 I like the tots to call me Pop and Daddy isn't bad.
 My sons style me the Gov'nor, my daughters, Pater Dear.
 The wife calls me the Old Man! And Frenchy names me Pere.
 But one thing rules my innards and I feel just like a sap
 When some nincompoop gets chummy and addresses me as Pap.
 —N. I. Schiller

The "road-hog" was lying semi-conscious in a hospital bed.
 Doctor—How is he this morning?
 Nurse—Oh, he keeps putting out his right arm.
 Doctor—Ah! He's turning the corner.

Of Father's Day
 Of Father's Day, I'd like to say,
 It always makes me sad
 To hear from some young popin'-y.
 "Old Man," instead of "Dad."

My Neighbor's Roses
 By Abraham Lincoln Gruber

The roses red upon my neighbor's vine
 Are owned by him, but they are also mine.
 His cost, and his labor too
 But mine, as well as his the joy,
 Their loveliness to view.

They bloom for me, and are for me as fair,
 As for the man who gives them all his care.
 Thus I am rich, because, a good man grew
 A rose clad vine, for all his neighbor's view.

I know from this, that others plant for me,
 And what they own, my joy may also be.
 So why be selfish, when so much that's fine
 Is grown for you, upon your Neighbor's Vine.

THE SACRED DAGGER

By Rita Mohler Hanson

YESTERDAY: Anne Willard, worried half out of her head by the plight of her parents, who are held by the Nagaras to fulfill an ancient prophecy, now has a further fear. Word has come that the government was sending an observer to the camp, and now the shrewd turns out to be Blaise Sherwood, who is not only antagonistic to Anne's parents, but the man she is trying to keep from leaving. Life in Asia is endlessly complicated, she has found.

Chapter 24

Tight Moment

"So that's it," muttered Larry inside the hut. "We just took it for granted the fellow would be a native from Chuka—but Sherwood has his nerve." No one else spoke. Anne found she could better control her trembling knees if she sat down.

Sherwood handed Oliver two bright red papers. "Letters of introduction in case you require them," he said dryly. "And this—opening a pretentious parchment—is an official proclamation to the effect that I am of a rank equivalent to a—Mandarin of the Second Button—and must be received and treated as such." He finished with a slightly deprecating smile.

Oliver took the document and went over it slowly. "I bet he can't read one word in ten," muttered Larry.

"Shut up," hissed his wife. "They'll be hearing you."

Mackey was staring inquisitively towards the mess hut undoubtedly wondering why the others did not appear, but Sherwood kept his eyes glued on Philip Oliver and his face as expressionless as a Chinese diplomat's.

At length Philip handed back the document. "I suppose there's nothing I can do about it," he said coldly, "but you must know you're not welcome here."

"I've come only to observe—not to interfere," Sherwood's voice held a note of placation. Oliver shrugged skeptically and then stiffened. "How about Anne?"

Sherwood's face froze—all but the eyes. "What do you mean?" Inside the hut Beth caught her breath with a surprised gulp. The others were so quiet that they could hear the tinkle of the cotwood leaves slapping each other in the faint breeze. Mackey squared off as if expecting to have to break up a fight.

Oliver was brave enough. He saw Sherwood's eyes but still he answered: "I mean that wedding ceremony in Arishar does not give you the right to be called her husband."

"I don't know as he's asked for the right," Diana tuttered inside the hut.

"It happens to keep you from having the right," Blaise answered dangerously.

"Them's fightin' words," quoted Larry indignantly.

"So that's your game," sneered Philip. "Well, we've discovered—" he glanced towards the hut and changed his mind. Anne felt sure he was thinking of the birth knots.

"I won't knock you down as you deserve," said Blaise through clenched teeth, "because I understand your provocation, but I'm here to stay and I suggest that we try to get along together. I've brought a cook and equipment. I'd like you to assign us a place to pitch our tents."

Every one relaxed. The lightning had spent itself in thunder. Oliver spoke civilly. "I suggest you come greet my colleagues now. I believe you've met them and their wives."

"I have," said Sherwood falling into step with him and motioning Mackey to follow. "I just learned in Hani that the Martaines and Huffs are with you."

Fright
 INSIDE the hut Anne glanced longingly towards the kitchen door. She didn't know whether she could face this ordeal or not until she saw Diana watching her sharply. Beth came over and took Anne's hand and squeezed it excitedly.

"Gosh, you're looking swell," she whispered, and scrutinized Anne critically. "I never noticed before what gorgeous eyes you have. Maybe Blaise isn't as bad a scoundrel as Philip thinks."

"And maybe he's worse," answered Anne, coldly drawing her hand away. For a moment everything appeared a blur to her. She heard footsteps, saw undifferentiated figures float into the room.

Diana rushed forward. Blaise was shaking her hands and reaching for the physician to draw him into the greeting. The kitchen door was too much for Anne. She slipped out and stood staring blindly at the cook whose cheeks were puffed out like bladders. He had just filled up with water—China-cook fashion—to sprinkle down the earthen floor. In his surprise at the way she stared, he swallowed the fluid instead.

"But you'll have to speak to him sometime," she said out loud. "Yes, Missie," gulped the cook. "You can't go around like a tragedy queen."

"No, Missie." She did not hear him. In a moment she had herself in hand again and stepped back into the big room. The other greetings had been completed. Blaise was gazing down at Beth. He lifted his head and looked across at Anne, his face expressionless, as if waiting to see what she expected of him.

 "How do you do, Blaise," she said pleasantly and walked over behind Philip's chair to avoid going out in the center of the room to greet him.
 "Good morning, Anne," he said, scrutinizing her face with deliberation. "You are looking well."

"I'm feeling fine," she answered, meeting his gaze unflinchingly, impersonally. "An eight days' fast is no more than food for the soul."

His eyes darkened a little with some unexpressed emotion. "But who'd believe it until he's tried it?"

She let her gaze slide across his shoulder.
 "Hello, Pete. Glad to see you again," Mackey grinned.
 Philip rose impatiently. "We'll choose a place for your tents now."

The men went out and the women sat down and looked at each other.
 "Did you two quarrel all the time you were on the desert?" Beth asked.

"What do you think?" demanded Anne crossly.
 Diana laughed. "Blaise knows how to take care of himself."

Beth lashed out at her. "Then where do you think you'll get with him?"

"Beth!" warned Anne and rose. "We're all talking like fools today. Our nerves are on edge. I'm going down to the dig and work."

She joined one of the Chinese shovel men and examined the objects he had spread out on a scarf—mostly flints and a few curious flat stones which looked as if the scratches on them might be inscriptions. She took a paper and pencil and attempted to copy the markings and see if she could resolve them into glyphs.

The sudden taking off of the plane brought her to her feet. The ship circled for altitude and then soared southeast in the direction of the Bekkan Bula peaks.

There's Blaise sending Pete now," she wondered, and when she turned facing camp, started at the sight of Mackey coming towards her across the uneven ground.

She drew him into the shade of her clay ridge and asked him what he knew.
 "Miss Anne," he said, "I'm so glad that if I'd bite myself I'd die of poison. Did you see that ship go off?"

"I thought it was you."

New Danger
 IT'S Blaise. He's messing in with the Nagara tribesmen." That brought her head up.

"He's gone to look for those fool Russians on the chance that they're still alive."

"Then the rumor's true about the Russians?"

"It's true," confirmed Mackey bitterly. "They're probably carved into dogmeat by now and Blaise is saying himself out for the same bill of fare."

Anne looked apprehensive. "Is he planning to land among the tribesmen?"

"I don't know about that. But if he lands on the plateau of the treasure valley, he's doomed. Un-til that place is revealed to the world according to the way of the prophecy, no man except the elect sees it and lives. I've been getting a few earfuls about this proposition lately. They tell that a Swedish explorer once stumbled upon the city and later his bare bones, in a sack with a few of his other possessions, were found far out on the desert. A gang of Chinese gold seekers invaded the mountains and never returned. In Shani Lun they also tell of a native plane pilot who happened to see the city from the air and came back with the story. He killed himself one night when some strange horseman rode into the capital and gave him a dagger with which to do the job."

"Were these horsemen supposed to be Nagara tribesmen?" Anne asked, a trifle skeptically.

"I see you don't believe it either," Pete murmured. "These Nagaras are as different from the people about them as a Japanese is from a Hottentot. And they intend to remain that way. They hunt down and kill any girl who is carried off and married outside her own people. They kill any girl smuggled into the tribe from surrounding races."

Anne shuddered. "I wish we weren't mixed up with them. Why didn't Blaise let you go with him?"

"Because he believes the Nagaras get their man. He wouldn't risk my skin."

Anne looked at him with troubled eyes. "Is there anything we can do about it, Pete?"

"Not that I know of. Doddap is praying. And when the lama prays off schedule it means he's scared." They looked up at the sun and walked back to camp in silence.

Pete insisted on eating lunch in his own tent though Anne invited him up to the mess hut. "I can worry better when there's nobody else around me," he said.

She found that she could worry with sufficient success in a crowd. The whole table talk was about Blaise and the Russians.

"He's certainly not afraid to die," said Martaine.

Larry glared at him. "Do you believe all this vengeance hokey?"

"More or less," said the physician coldly.
 "Sherwood will have no one to blame but himself if the Nagaras do him in," declared Oliver.

Cardinals Beat Brooklyn In Lone League Contest Friday by Score of 1-0

Rival Pitchers Allow Four Hits, but Cards Couple Walk With Two Safeties to Tally

Nationals Resume Action in West and Americans Move East

(By The Associated Press)

One club buys them, the other sells 'em—and both extremes are equally successful.

Under Larry MacPhail, the Brooklyn Dodgers have spent close to $1,000,000 for player talent since 1938.

In the same period the St. Louis Cardinals' management has received more than $350,000 on the sale of players—several of whom now grace the Dodger roster.

And today St. Louis and Brooklyn occupy the one-two positions in the National League, 10½ and 7½ games ahead of the pack and giving no indications of weakening.

In the only game played in either league yesterday the Cardinals gained a 1-0 triumph over the Flatbush team in the first of a four-game series to the two four games apiece in their individual rivalry.

Whitlow Wyatt matched Southpaw Max Lanier's performance in pitching a four-hitter, but the Cards coupled a walk and two singles in the third inning to push across their tally. After Terry Moore walked Johnny Hopp singled him to third and Don Padgett ripped loose with a one base drive to score him.

Brooklyn had its chance in the fourth inning with the bases loaded and two out, but Mickey Owen grounded to the infield.

Brooklyn has its other troubles too, with the announcement that Catcher Babe Phelps had been fined $500 and indefinitely suspended for his failure to accompany the Dodgers to St. Louis. Manager Leo Durocher said he did not want Phelps on the team any longer.

The National League resumes action in the west today while the American moves east.

Brooklyn and St. Louis resume their four-game series with Harry Gumbert scheduled to pitch for the Cards, opposed by Luke Hamlin.

The resurgent New York Giants and Cincinnati will break up a third place tie in Cincinnati.

Hal Schumacher will oppose Elmer Riddle of the Reds in hurling duty.

Other National League games send the Phillies to Chicago and Boston to Pittsburgh.

Over in the American League the leading Cleveland Indians open an important three-game stand in New York against the second-place Yankees.

Robert Feller gets first choice to protect the Indians' four-game lead, opposed by Alton Donald.

Detroit invades Washington, Chicago plays at Boston, and the St. Louis Browns make the first eastern debut under Manager Luke Sewall at Philadelphia.

Selecting Officials for DUSO League Games

A meeting was held at 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, June 11, in the Middletown High School for the purpose of selecting officials for DUSO League athletic contests for football, basketball and baseball for the year 1941-42. There were representatives present from Ellenville, Kingston, Liberty, Middletown, Monticello, Newburgh, Port Jervis and Saugerties.

A list of officials who have been used in the past year was presented. Several new names were added to each list. The names of several officials who had been used in the games during the present year were dropped from the list because of the fact that the men have either entered the army or moved out of the territory. Officials were assigned to all games in football, basketball and baseball. The representatives of the various schools approved the officials assigned to each game. Within a day or two letters will go to these various officials telling them that they have been selected, giving them their schedule of assignments and asking them to reply immediately accepting the assignments.

Babe Phelps Will Be Among Players Traded Tomorrow

New York, June 14 (AP)—This is dollar day in the big leagues and all the clubs have their "end of bargain sale" signs on display.

The majors have been seething with trade talk for a couple of days, but it finally has reached the showdown stage because tomorrow is the last day this season that trades may be made, except through waivers.

Babe Phelps, chubby Brooklyn catcher with a lifetime batting average of .315 is one of the bargains known to be on the shelf. The Dodgers brought up catcher Herman Franks from their Montreal farm yesterday, fined Phelps $500 and suspended him indefinitely because he failed to accompany the club on its western invasion.

No one made any secret that the Dodgers are trying to make a deal for the 33-year-old veteran of seven seasons in the National League.

Phelps remained at home in Maryland last spring instead of accompanying the club to Havana for training and was relegated to second-string backstop. He pleaded illness then and likewise said he was ill Thursday when he did not show up on the Dodgers' train to St. Louis.

But last night Manager Leo Durocher said he was through with Phelps and did not want him on the club any longer. The catcher retorted that he, too, wished he would be traded.

Just where he might wind up was a matter of conjecture. The Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs were possibilities.

Manager Bill McKeechie of the Reds said yesterday at Cooperstown, N. Y., before the exhibition with the Cleveland Indians that he was "sure there will be some trading before the deadline. I am sure we are not going to have to hurt ourselves very much to make a deal if we want it."

He refused to amplify this statement, but, with seven outfielders on his roster he is in a good position to dickeer.

The Cubs, trying actively to make a deal for a pitcher, might be willing to use Hank Leiber or Augie Galan as bait. They could have had Harry Gumbert from the St. Louis Cardinals a few weeks ago but they delayed too long in agreeing to put pitcher Vance Page into the swap. The Giants are reported offering outfielder Frank Demaree for trade.

The New York Yankees have been canvassing virtually every other member of the American League for talent in the last two weeks without avail. They need a first baseman and a pitcher, but apparently the other clubs are afraid to strengthen the Yanks.

The Chicago White Sox are desperately in need of hitting, but have little to offer in a deal.

Cincinnati, O., June 14 (AP)—Freckle-faced, red-haired Patty Berg, 23-year-old Minneapolis professional, met Mrs. Burt Weil, 37-year-old Cincinnati housewife, today over the 36-hole route for the Women's Western Open Golf Championship. Miss Berg got into the finals by beating Miss Betty Jameson, the two-time national amateur ruler from San Antonio, one up in 21 holes. Mrs. Weil in yesterday's semi-finals defeated Mrs. James D. Platt, Jr., of Dayton, the state medal play queen, by 3 and 2.

Clay Court Tennis
Chicago, June 14 (AP)—Jimmy Evert, 17-year-old National Junior Champion, may get a chance to blast open the National Clay Courts tennis tournament with an upset today. The Chicago youngster was booked to face the veteran Bryan Grant in today's inaugural over the River Forest Club courts and observers gave him an excellent chance to jolt Grant on the basis on Evert's vastly improved play recently. The only hitch in the schedule, said officials, was that Grant had been delayed in Atlanta and might not arrive in time for the match.

Game at Rosendale
Sunday at 2 o'clock on the Kristie Diamond in Rosendale. The Yacht Men will play the Rifton team.

School No. 3 Has Baseball Championship

School No. 3 followed this year's grade school basketball championship by winning every baseball game of the season and adding that trophy to their collection. Those who played on the team are, left to right, seated on the floor, Floyd Gilbert, Alton Stewart, Arthur Buck and Wallace Gedney. In the center row are Vincent Rathgeber, David Lindsay, co-captain; Donald Lawson and James Lindsay. In the back row are Eugene Brodhead, Melvin Mones, Umberto Benincasa, Charles Charnello, and Irving Mones. Co-Captain and Pitcher William Schabot was absent when the picture was taken.

Louis Expected to Close In on Conn In Opening Round

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, June 14 (AP)—Those who are predicting that Billy Conn will win the heavyweight championship next Wednesday night because Joe Louis made a rather messy job of beating Buddy Baer are laying themselves open to a painful surprise. Conn, of course, is included.

The Joe Louis who is getting ready to stalk Billy Boy under the Polo Grounds lights is a different customer from the heat-sufferer who approached the Baer bout with a sort of weary indifference, knowing he could stop Buddy whenever he got ready and seeing no reason to hurry.

"That was awful," Joe says now. "I trained under a tin roof down there."

The day before the Baer fight Louis sat in his dressing room and sweated, his mind wandering casually to baseball and the army. When asked how quickly he expected to knock out Baer he roused himself only sufficiently to say "it don't pay to get in a hurry this kind of weather."

And that was about the way he fought Buddy, exchanging licks almost casually, even after Buddy's ponderous left half-knocked half-shoved him through the ropes in the opening chapter.

Then Baer opened a cut on Joe's left eyelid, and while they patched up the eye between rounds, Joe's handlers, Jack Blackburn and Julian Black, told him to give Buddy the works and take no chances on the wound being worsened.

Only then did the crowd see the real Joe Louis—the one I suspect Conn will face from the first bell next Wednesday.

Louis, given his orders, hurried across the ring and began chopping Baer down like he was using an axe in either hand. Buddy was a terribly-beaten fighter when the round ended. The punch that felled him after the bell and which caused all the hullabaloo did not affect the outcome. Referee Arthur Donovan would not have let Louis hit the dazed Buddy more than about once more.

Has Been Loafing
All of which is to say that Louis has been loafing somewhat all through his strenuous campaign of the winter and spring, putting forth just enough effort to win in each case. This is on the admission of one of Joe's closest advisers, who does not wish to be quoted and sees no particular harm in Joe's tactics.

The main thing was they wanted to see Joe fight," he said. "As a matter of fact, Joe had planned to make an exhibition tour the past winter, but Promoter Mike Jacobs convinced us it would be better to have a series of title fights. Under the conditions, it was not to be expected that Joe would be able to get excited about every fight. But you watch him go against Conn."

There is no doubt in anybody's mind in Louis' camp that the champion intends to dispatch Conn in the first round if he can. Joe merely says "I'll get him quick as I can. That is the way he is training, rushing his sparring partners every second."

Rees Without Game
The baseball game scheduled for Sunday afternoon in Schenectady between the Kingston Receptions and the General Electric has been postponed again. This morning Joe Hoffman, manager of the Rees, announced that the team will practice Monday and Tuesday in preparation for Wednesday's night attraction.

Sofball Games
The Colonial Sweet Shop softball team will play the Uptown A. and P. Market on Monday evening and Sawkill on Thursday evening. Both games will be played on the lower diamond at Forsyth Park. Softball teams desiring games contact John Whalen, 62 Hoffman street.

All-Star Football Team to Train at Cornwall Academy

The 1941 Eastern College All-Star football team will train at the New York Military Academy, Cornwall-on-Hudson, for the sixth annual Tribune Fresh Air Fund game against the New York Giants which will be played in the Polo Grounds the night of September 3. Practice will begin on Wednesday, August 13. This will provide a training period of exactly three weeks, three days longer than that of last year's All-Stars who defeated the Giants 16 to 7.

This will be the third year of training at New York Military Academy. Numerous schools and colleges offered their facilities to the All-Star team but after consideration of all possible sites, Jim Crowley, of Fordham, the coach, decided on the site picked by his immediate predecessors, Tuss McLaughry and Jack Sutherland.

The All-Star squad, which is now in process of formation, will report in New York on the morning of August 13 and will go to Cornwall-on-Hudson by bus in time for lunch. The first afternoon will be occupied with fitting uniforms, physical examinations and a brief practice session. Thereafter the All-Stars will practice twice a day until Crowley considers they have reached the tapering off stage. Arrangements are being made for a series of practice scrimmages with a professional team. One of the many advantages in training at Cornwall is that the All-Stars have been able to use the indoor field at the United States Military Academy, six miles away, in rainy weather.

Just Business
Oklahoma City—R. A. Sheary wasn't joking when he advertised for a black cat on Friday the 13th. He works for a pet hospital. The animal is an escaped patient.

Form Reversal
Philadelphia—Here's a reversal of the story of the boss who dies and remembers the faithful employee in his will.

This time it was the employee, William Wright, who left his $102,500 estate to his employer, Morris Meiberg, restaurant proprietor for whom Wright wrote in his will "I have always enjoyed working."

He also said Meiberg was "my best friend."

Prize Story
Chicago—The Chicago Federation of Advertising Club has chosen President Roosevelt as the "laugh king of 1941" on the basis that a story told by him provided the year's heartiest laugh.

The story concerned a White House conference which was interrupted by a telephone call from his son John asking the President to order a week's supply of diapers for his grandchild, soon to visit the White House.

Sugar for the Cream
Pipestone, Minn.—Somebody got a real bargain when he bought a five gallon cream can at a local store. It contained $100 in currency placed there for safekeeping overnight. The store manager would like to buy it back—if he can find the purchaser.

Samsonville
Samsonville, June 14—The Willing Workers will hold their usual July 4th celebration at the Samsonville Hall. A baked ham supper will be served. Ice cream and other refreshments will be on sale. There will be special music. The proceeds of this affair will be used in repairing and improving the hall.

Mrs. Mary Moore spent Friday in Kingston.

Mrs. Kate Barringer has presented the church with a load of firewood.

The Good Fellowship Club is planning to present their two one-act plays in the Accord, Methodist Hall June 20.

Robert Haver made a business trip to Long Island Thursday.

Mrs. Harry Keator spent Wednesday evening with Mrs. Harold Keator.

Several from this place attended the strawberry supper at Accord Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Shurter were the guests of honor at a party given Tuesday evening in the Samsonville Hall. The party was given by the Willing Workers and Good Fellowship Club in honor of their 21st wedding anniversary. They were the recipients of several gifts and a huge wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Shurter. About 60 friends and neighbors attended.

Mrs. Floyd Brown attended the farewell dinner given for Wallace J. Andrews, retiring school superintendent, at the Woodstock Village Inn Wednesday evening.

The regular meeting of the Willing Workers was held at the hall last Thursday. There was a large attendance and after the business meeting refreshments were served by two junior members, Edith Allen and Betty Barringer.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Traffic court waited a long time to get Joseph B. Craig, 25, who in two years accumulated—and ignored—15 tickets for parking violations.

And when he did appear, any possibility of leniency fled when the court, levying fines totaling $208 (Craig took 62 days in jail instead), discovered—

He had no driver's license.

Architects Plan First Exhibition At Poughkeepsie

The Mid-Hudson Valley Architectural Society will hold its first annual exhibition at the Hotel Campbell in Poughkeepsie June 28 to July 3, it was reported at the meeting of the society Thursday evening at the Covered Wagon, Red Oak Mills.

The report was made by Ralph Lovelock, chairman of public information, who outlined the plans of the committee in regard to the exhibition, showing a lay-out of the floor arrangements of the exhibition hall.

The exhibition will be divided into four major groups with a section for displays by non-practicing members of the society. There will be an exhibit of a new residence plan, a residence alteration plan, an exhibit of students' work secured from Pratt Institute in New York, and a section for selected exhibits by 11 individual members of the society.

Importance of such an exhibit as an aid to those contemplating new construction or additions, was stressed in the report. It was pointed out that the exhibit will be an annual event, making it possible for residents of the Mid-Hudson section to keep informed on architectural progress.

After the exhibit has been completed in Poughkeepsie, dates will be announced for the same exhibit to be shown in Kingston and Newburgh.

Those from Kingston present at the meeting were: Hugh McCullough, Myron S. Teller, president of the society, and Harry Halverson.

Young People Are Urged to Register At Once for Jobs

In view of the fact that inexperienced workers, fresh from high schools and colleges, are expected to play an increasingly important role in our defense production efforts, Kenneth A. Simpson, manager of the local office of the New York State Employment Service, today urged all young people to register for work with the State Employment Service at once.

"Inexperienced young workers who show aptitudes are already being considered for jobs in the aircraft, munitions and shipbuilding industries," said Mr. Simpson, "and opportunities will be even better when our production program reaches its peak."

"Broad training programs are being conducted in New York State under the supervision of the Board of Education. For young people who wish to take a training course, the local state employment office is the first step, just as it is for those seeking jobs. These training courses cover various occupations that are considered vital to our defense program."

"The New York State Employment Service plays an important role in these courses by referring suitable applicants to the appropriate educational authorities," continued Mr. Simpson. "Of course, it is not the only agency that refers applicants, but every qualified youth who registers with the Employment Service can be sure that he will be given every consideration for referral, if he wishes to enroll. Since the beginning of this program last June, the employment offices in this state have referred thousands of young people to these courses. A good share of them have already completed their training and been placed in jobs."

Comprehensive information about the needs of American industry and American workers—young and old—is constantly at the fingertips of every employment office in this state," continued Mr. Simpson. "Field workers of the nation's more than 1500 public employment offices each month visit approximately 20,000 defense establishments employing 20 or more workers. From employers they get estimates of expected labor requirements, the expected duration of employment, and detailed information about job specifications. The New York State Employment Service has access to all this information and from these and other reports, local offices know where job openings are likely to occur. This information is invaluable to all workers—young and old, alike."

"I want to emphasize, however," concluded Mr. Simpson "that the State Employment Service can't guarantee young people jobs immediately. On the other hand, we can guarantee that all who do register with our offices will be in the front line when jobs do come through. Our employment service is the official agency for hiring defense workers in this state."

Pastor Is Elected

The Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor of the Spring Street Lutheran Church, this city, and J. C. McLain of Oneonta, were elected to the Hartwick College board of trustees at the meeting of the United Lutheran Synod of New York held earlier in the week at Buffalo. Hartwick College is located in Oneonta.

Memorial

In sad loving memory of my dearly beloved sister, Mrs. Lydia M. Wheeler, who departed this life June 15, 1939.

She is gone but not forgotten. And, as dawn's another year. In my lonely hours of thinking. Thoughts of her are always near.

Days of sadness will come o'er me; Friends may think the wound is healed.

But they little know the sorrow That lies within the heart concealed.

SISTER, MABEL

Local Death Record

The unveiling of the monument to Jacob Lippard will take place, Sunday, at 2 p. m. at Montrepose cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Seals of 115 Broadway died yesterday. She survived by her husband, William Seals. Funeral services will be held from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, Monday at 2 p. m. Relatives and friends are invited. Burial will be in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Ellenville, June 13—Isaac Krevat, 77, died at his home at Briggs Highway Saturday after an illness of about six months. Funeral services were held Sunday with burial in the Montrepose cemetery at Queens Village, L. I. He was born in Russia December 25, 1863, son of Sola and Ida Krevat. He is survived by his wife, Bella Krevat.

Herman Zieger, a resident of Union Center, died at home on Tuesday after a brief illness. He conducted a chicken farm at Union Center. He was born in Germany and had lived in this country for over 50 years and for the last 11 years at Union Center. He leaves one daughter, Emma, of New York. The funeral was held at the funeral parlors of Ernest A. Kelly Friday at 2 p. m. with the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick conducting the service. Burial was in the Ulster Park Cemetery, where the Rev. Mr. Gollnick conducted the committal service.

Arthur Lancaster, an old resident of the town of Esopus, died Friday morning after a brief illness. Mr. Lancaster lived in Union Center for about 40 years and was a retired school teacher. He was born in England and had lived in this country many years. He conducted a farm, but for the past few years his health would not permit him to do much work. He was an educated gentleman and a good neighbor and citizen. He left no close relatives. The funeral will be held at the McAuliffe Funeral Home, 86 Pearl street, Sunday at 4 p. m., with burial in St. Remy cemetery. Friends wishing to call may do so Saturday evening between the hours of 7 and 9 p. m. at the funeral home.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church Thursday afternoon. The Rev. Donald H. Spencer officiated. Burial was in the Fantinelli cemetery. Mrs. Mance was born at Spring Glen November 19, 1858, a daughter of Alphonse E. of Walden; one daughter, Bertha May, wife of Charles Peters of Cragmoor, and one sister, Mrs. Frank J. Potter of Ellenville.

Ellenville, June 13—Harry Aronowitz died at his home on Center street Tuesday evening after a few months' illness of heart disease. He was born in New York on April 12, 1897, the son of George and Rebecca Aronowitz. He was associated in the grocery business both on Center and Canal streets. He was a director of both the Hebrew Aid Society and the Ellenville Credit Union. Surviving are his wife, Henrietta Aronowitz; his mother and two sisters, Mrs. Esther Berman of New York and Miss Ethel Aronowitz of Ellenville, and one brother, Sam Aronowitz of this village. One of the largest funerals ever held in Ellenville was held for him at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Rabbi L. Katz officiating. Burial was in the Hebrew Aid Society cemetery at Wawarsing.

Together with relatives and friends to attend the funeral from the high mass for Mrs. Joseph J. Disch, took place in St. Peter's Church this morning. The Rev. Henry E. Herdgen, acting pastor of St. Peter's Church, was the celebrant. Music during the services was provided by the church organist, Arthur J. Belich, with Walter Smith as soloist. Among the many people at the church, was a large delegation of the Christian Mothers Society. The society also met at the Disch home, 43 Garden street, Friday afternoon and under the direction of Father Herdgen recited the Rosary for the repose of her soul. Mrs. Disch, who died here last Wednesday night, was well known throughout Kingston and had many friends, many of whom called at her home to pay their last respects. Several dozen beautiful floral tributes from various sources were received in honor of the memory of Mrs. Disch, including pieces from the Hercules Powder Co., Kingston Police Department, Kingston Fire Department, Camp Eustis, Virginia, barracks and battalion of Camp Eustis, and others. Among other expressions were an unusually large number of spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards. The Masses for the intention of Mrs. Disch will be said in various churches at later dates. Bearers were Fred Scholl, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Deputy Fire Chief Harold Sanford, Frank Smith, Edward Noble and Daniel Noble.

Financial and Commercial

Properties of City Will Be Offered For Sale Tuesday

More than 100 pieces of city-owned property will be offered for sale on Tuesday afternoon, June 24, at 2 o'clock at the city hall by City Clerk E. J. Dempsey under the provisions of an ordinance adopted at the last meeting of the Common Council earlier in the month.

Included in the sale will be approximately 60 building lots of the City Home property, located on Flatbush avenue, East Chester street, Tammany street and vicinity. It is expected that this section of the city will shortly experience a building boom.

The properties to be offered at the sale are in all sections of the city, and in every ward with the exception of the First, Sixth and Tenth wards.

In addition to the 60 building lots some 45 other properties, including the old Hauck brewery which is in the process of being torn down, will be offered for sale. Maps showing the location of the various properties may be seen at any time before the sale at the office of the city clerk.
